

Spotlighting Service: SCA Alumnus, Atticus Fehl, Makes a Difference in Spartanburg

Spartanburg Christian Academy Alumnus, Atticus Fehl, is currently a student and Bonner Scholar at Wofford College. The Wofford Today recently highlighted Atticus as a Bonner Scholar who has had a great impact on our community. A Bonner Scholar spends at least 10 hours per week and 280 hours per summer in community service in exchange for scholarships. Dr. Benjamin Dunlap, the President of Wofford College, says, "I believe the world is a better place because of Wofford College. I am certain it's a better place because of the Bonner Scholars Program." Atticus, Wofford College class of 2012, has volunteered for three years at the St. Luke's Free Medical Clinic where some of the staff confirm, he "could run the place." Fehl continues to lead as he regularly tackles new responsibilities at St. Luke's Free Medical Center. We are proud of Atticus for his continued efforts in serving the people of Spartanburg!
